

The Daily Courant.

Wednesday, October 6. 1714.

London, October 6.

Yesterday arrived three Mails from Holland.

From the Amst. and Leid. Gaz. dated Oct. 9.

Vienna, September 26.

PRINCE Eugene arrived here the 21st from Baden, and had immediately Audience of the Emperour, to whom he made a Report of what had passed in the Congress. His Imperial Majesty holds frequent Councils upon the present Posture of his Affairs, and particularly upon a Project which 'tis said Prince Eugene has communicated to him for keeping 100000 Men on Foot in time of Peace; that is, 40000 Horse and 60000 Foot; whereof 20000 shall quarter in Hungary, 35000 in Bohemia, Silesia, Austria, and the other hereditary Countries; 8000 in Naples, 14000 in the Milanese, and 23000 in the Netherlands. Baron Hunkheim, Minister of the Elector Palatine, departed the 22d instant to return home: And 'tis said he carries a Letter written by the Emperour's own Hand, wherein his Majesty expresses his Grief that he was not able to procure in the late Treaty at Baden that the Upper Palatinate should remain in the Hands of his Electoral Highness. Some Advices from Walachia say, that the Ottoman Porte got 30 Millions by the Death of the Hospodar who was lately strangled at Constantinople.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated Oct. 12.

Warsaw, Sept. 29. The King, who arrived here some Days ago, having received Advice that the Nobility of divers Palatinates were mounted on Horseback and assembled at Czersikow near Casimer, has sent to them Lieutenant General Baudisch with some Proposals. The Sub-General of Lithuania, with a Guard of 300 Dragoons, is gone to that Body of Nobility, to endeavour to calm their Minds: And the Grand Chancellor is for the same purpose gone to Visit the Primate. In the mean time the King has on his part assembled all his Saxon Troops, and ordered the Artillery to be brought up, and is resolved to advance to Kusnietz, in order to be at hand to observe the Designs of the Nobility. His Majesty has also caused a great Quantity of Hay, Oats, and Corn, to be bought up for the Subsistence of his Army.

Berlin, Oct. 2. On the 28th past at 10 in the Evening the Queen was brought to Bed of a Princess, who was baptized the 30th, and named Frederica Louisa; she had for Godfathers and Godmothers, the Emperour, the Empress, the Czar, and the King of Great-Britain, who were represented by the Margraves Albert and Louis, and the Ladies their Spouses. The King returned the 28th from Potsdam, and 'tis said will in a little time make a Tour in the Country of Halberstadt; from whence we hear that Count Nassau is countermanded upon Advice we have received that there remains no Fear that the Swedes will force their Passage through that Country to Pomerania.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated Oct. 9.

Hanover, Oct. 2. The Princess Consort to his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, having received Letters from the Prince, whereby he desires her to follow him immediately to England, has resolved to send her Baggage forward next Saturday for Holland, and that on Monday following two of the Princesses her Daughters shall set out for the Hague, and that she herself will depart the Thursday following, in Order to go for England. The Dutchess of Zell is expected at Herrenhausen to Morrow Night, and the Dutchess of Wolfembüttel the next Day, to take their Leaves of her Royal Highness.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated Oct. 12.

Hamburg, Oct. 5. Letters from Copenhagen advise, that the Expedition upon Schonen is no longer talked of; on the contrary, 10 or 12 Ships of War are actually disarming, in Order to be laid up, and that the King is going to take a Turn in Holstein before Winter. From Stockholm of the 22d past they write from fresh Advices, that the Squadron of Vice-Admiral Lille has met with so violent a Tempest in the Scheerens, that the Phenix, the Wagmeister, the Riga, and the Revel, have been cast away on the Rocks, and the other Men of War are so shattered that it will be impossible for them to return to Carelscoon before they are refitted; and 'tis feared Admiral Wangrang, from whom we have received no News since this Storm happened, has had his Share in it. We hear from Petersbourg, that the Czar is retired from Cronstot, and that his Majesty has withdrawn into Finland all the Troops he had in the Island of Aland, which Place he has abandoned: But that he intends nevertheless to execute the Designs he has projected against Sweden as soon as the Frost has made the Ice passable.
